

DETAILS, DETAILS, DETAILS...

The Stone Mill Market is a juried shopping event. Vendor application does not guarantee acceptance. After receipt of application, applying vendors will be contacted within 10 business days.

The Stone Mill Market does not accept third-party/national vendors. The Stone Mill Market makes every effort to assure a varied and proportional selection of vendors, but does not guarantee any vendor exclusivity of any type of product. Once accepted, all vendors must provide tables, chairs, and displays for their booth spaces. By participating in the Stone Mill Market, vendors agree to follow all rules of the venue, event organizers, and local ordinances.

The Stone Mill Market takes place at The Warehouse, an urban-industrial venue in Bloomington, Ind. The indoor exhibition space offers even concrete floors, modern restrooms, and vehicle pull-in loading and unloading. The Warehouse exhibition hall is a fully enclosed, renovated industrial space, which is protected from precipitation, but not climate controlled.

The Stone Mill Market strives to ensure uniformity in booth spaces, however, irregularities in architecture of the building may affect the exact booth space dimensions or proportions. Some booths allow electrical access, 15 amps maximum. Indicate electrical requirements on vendor application.

Local fire codes prevent vehicles from being stored inside the venue overnight and when the public is present. An exception applies for vehicles essential to a vendor's operation, which requires the fuel tank to be emptied to below 1/8 tank and the battery be disconnected. Permission is required for a vehicle to remain in the building and must be arranged prior to the event.

For inventory restocking/storage purposes only, trailers may be stored inside the building, away from the event area, with prior permission. The trailer must be labeled with vendor name, and be accessible for Fire Marshall inspection at all times.

All vendor vehicles present inside or outside the building must display a parking pass (provided prior to the event) on their dashboard with their vendor name.