

The Stone Mill Market

Shh—we don't say the f-word.

The Stone Mill Market is unlike any flea market you've ever been to — it's one of the area's fastest growing eclectic shopping events.

Every Stone Mill Market boasts a unique, hand-picked roster of vendors selected to appeal to a wide audience: antiques and vintage, clothing, furniture, art and crafts, woodworking, home decor, health and beauty, jewelry, children's items, fine foods, and more.

The Stone Mill Market takes place at The Warehouse, an urban-industrial venue in Bloomington, Ind. The indoor exhibition space offers even concrete floors, modern restrooms, and vehicle pull-in loading and unloading.¹

Custom planned and promoted.

Every Stone Mill Market is unique — we custom plan and organize each event. Vendors receive event planning guides with tips, social media strategies, event-day setup instructions, and more.

With award-winning promotion — in The Herald-Times, on local radio, online, and on social media — The Stone Mill Market offers unparalleled visibility. Each event draws about 3,000 visitors from around south-central Indiana and further.

Here's what our vendors say:

"Very well organized. Great marketing. Great coordinators. Good crowd."

"It's a very well organized and publicized event with a solid turnout each and every time."

"I liked the diversity in vendors. The traffic was amazing. Everyone was very helpful and kind. I like that the event supports the community and the community supports the event."

We're always improving — we survey vendors and visitors after every event.

1) The Warehouse exhibition hall is fully enclosed and protected from precipitation, but is not climate controlled. Some booths allow electrical access, 15 amps maximum. Indicate electrical requirements on vendor application. 2) The Stone Mill Market does not accept third-party/national vendors. The Stone Mill Market makes every effort to assure a varied and proportional selection of vendors, but does not guarantee any vendor exclusivity of any type of product. Once accepted, all vendors must provide tables, chairs, and displays for their booth spaces. By participating in the Stone Mill Market, vendors agree to follow all rules of the venue, event organizers, and local ordinances. 3) Does not apply to pre-packaged foods. Includes 50% booth cost refund credited after attendance on event day. 4) Early bird discount applies to applications accepted and payments received by 30 days prior to event date.
